

Regularity of domain and usage of different types of irregularities

Tomáš Roskovec*

* Faculty of Education, University of South Bohemia in České Budějovice, Czech Republic
E-mail: troskovec@jcu.cz

In the theory of Sobolev spaces, we focus on the regular domains, mostly used are the Lipschitz domains, the John domains, and the domains with cone property. We explain why this concept is important and provide most natural types of broken regularity, their application and how to use them to reveal the necessity of the assumption of regularity.